This Nedis convector heater with a maximum heating capacity of 2000 Watt is the ideal heater if you quickly want to heat up a room. Use this heater as an emergency replacement for when your central heating system is down or as a heater for in between the hot and cold seasons or just use it in rooms that don't have central heating.

With its integrated handles the heater is easy to move from room to room, and together with the fact that the heater is noiseless makes it flexible and ideal to heat up the bedroom. This convector has some extra features like overheating protection, 3 different heating modes and a turbo-mode. All these features make it easy to heat up any room to your ideal temperature.
